School Education - the funding debate?

School funding rose by $10 billion in the past ten years.

Writing in The Australian Financial Review, School Education Program Director Pete Goss explains where the money has gone and warns that with a new deal soon required, Australia must urgently decide the future of school funding.

A draft report from the Productivity Commission says that education spending has substantially increased over the past decade while student achievement has not improved much. In a FactCheck for The Conversation, Pete Goss shows that resources per student have only increased a little over the past decade after taking into account rising wages for teachers that mirror rises in wages across the population.

The Productivity Commission showed that over a decade government funding to schools rose by 24 per cent in real terms – while at the same time education outcomes stagnated or slipped. The media outcry over alleged wasted money that followed in the wake of the PC report has overlooked a bigger issue: Australia must urgently decide the future of school funding. A new funding deal is needed for 2018-19 – the last two years of so-called Gonski funding – and must be agreed in 2017. But is it important to understand where the extra 24 per cent in funding went? What drove the $10 billion real increase in government funding to schools between 2004-05 and 2013-14, the time period that the PC draft report on improving the nation’s evidence base in education analysed? Based on rough estimates, about $8 billion of the extra funding (or 80 per cent) went to a mix of “everyday” items: rising student numbers, wage increases, and the ongoing costs of increased investments in government school buildings. Student numbers grew by 9 per cent, so the real increase per student was 14 per cent. (The PC report noted this.) Educating these extra students cost just under $4 billion, or two-fifths of the overall increase.

No wage blowout

Wages in the education sector grew about 1 per cent faster than inflation. This cost a further $2 billion or so (another fifth) but was no wage blowout: education sector wages almost exactly tracked overall Australian wages. Government school costs were driven up by increased investment in buildings, especially the Building the Education Revolution in 2011-12. This added another fifth, or about $2 billion, to recurrent funding. The BER was always more about construction jobs than improved learning, but in most cases the new buildings are valuable as the student population continues to grow.
It is hard to ascertain from public information what the remaining $2 billion was spent on. The usual suspect in debates of this nature is smaller class sizes. But this does not appear to be significantly increasing costs. Across all schools from 2005 to 2014, the number of teacher staff per student (a proxy for class size) dropped only marginally, from 14.2 to 13.9, a negligible 2.2 per cent change.

We do know how the remaining $2 billion was split across sectors. About two-thirds went to government schools, which educate about two-thirds of Australia’s students. The remaining third went to non-government schools.

On a per student basis, the increases in government funding were bigger for non-government schools. School fees also rose in real terms, leading to much bigger increases in the overall resources per student in non-government schools, even while government schools were educating a larger proportion of the most needy students.

Reform is needed

Whatever the last $2 billion was spent on, this analysis makes it clear that the most of the increase ($8 billion) has paid for things that were never likely to be game-changing in terms of improving classroom performance. So we should not be surprised that the extra money has not resulted in better outcomes. Yet we should not deduce from this that funding in education doesn’t matter. Of course it matters, but the money must be spent well.

School Chaplaincy Program: Chaplain Nikki Hanlon

Nikki is here Monday, Tuesday after 12 and Wednesday. She is available to work with children or families or individuals where support is needed. Nikki has access to a range of support and assistance organisations. Please give her a call if you need a hand.

Car parking:

Please note: The staff carpark adjacent to ‘F’ block is staff only as the access, slope and tight spacing make it unsuitable and unsafe for general use. Please do not use this area.
Changes in State Government legislation – Prep and Year 1

Changes to legislation mean that from 2017, the first year of schooling will be Prep. The age of entry will not change in that most students will begin Prep in the year in which they turn 5 before 30 June. However, for those who do not begin at this time there will be a requirement that Prep is completed before entry to year 1.

Class Expression of Interest for 2017

As we prepare for a new school year in 2017, we are trying to keep changes to a minimum. Our class structure will (95% certain) remain the same as 2016, with 9 classes, groups A to I. There will be a Prep, Prep/1, 2 x 1/ 2, 2 x 3 /4, 1x 4/5 and 2 x 5/ 6 classes.

Class teachers will remain largely as for 2016, with the same teachers with the various Groups.

At this time each year it is our custom to provide an opportunity for parents to express a preference for the particular group teacher in the coming year and, if desired, a preference for a particular friendship group. Each year we do our utmost to accommodate these preferences, however, as you will understand, there are some miracles we can’t do.

If you have preferences for next year

1 For a particular teacher or
2. For a particular friendship group

Please email me directly at

Boxing – Gymnastics – Fitness
Includes half hour Gymfit class and breakfast too!

Run by our qualified fitness instructor and gymnastics coach Nikki Hanlon

BOOKINGS ESSENTIAL - Enrol at Kidz Bizz online or pop in to collect an enrolment form
Last Wednesday we had our first Kidzbizz Gymfit session before school. The kids loved the opportunity to let off some energy before classroom time. They enjoyed a yummy breakfast together after the session also.

The 30 minute class caters to the interest and skill level of the group. Gymnastics is a fantastic way to build strength, agility, flexibility, develop spatial awareness and coordination. There will be boxing and cardio based fitness as well.

Kids typically have lots of energy to burn first thing in the morning, so this is a great option to kick-start the day right. Everyone is welcome, Don’t forget to book through My Family Lounge App.. See you there!

Nikki

If your child has any injury/medical requirements please let me know in advance and obtain any necessary medical clearance, so appropriate modifications for them can be made.

QLD Primary School Track and Field State Championships - Congratulation to Emily F who competed in the Tetrathlon (4 events -100m 800m Long Jump and Shot Put) over 2 days .There were 22 competitors in her age group and Emily finished 7th . Well done !

If your child has excelled in any events please don’t hesitate to send information to admin@glenviewss.eq.edu and I will post it into our gazette.

What could be better than algebra, spelling tests and writing a persuasive text about the importance of learning to macramé? A swimming carnival of course. All the cool and sometimes wet participants had a great day. The weather was warm, the sun was shining and everyone tried their best. We had lots of help this year with our student teachers lending a hand, our keen staff working hard and we can’t forget the grand organiser of the event, Mrs Coleman.
All the students from Glenview State School would like to thank our sponsors for our sport ribbons.
Just a quick hi and thankyou for volunteering to help with the Italian Day lunch. Hopefully you have seen a menu come home with your kids. This year as part of the event, the P&C decided to take on the task of catering lunch with an Italian flavour. We are offering a pasta lunch and expect to receive approx 210 orders.

Help is needed from 9am-12.30 to get food hot and ready for service at 11.10am and 11.40am. Ideally 5 people are required at 9am for the preparation and then as many hands on deck to get the pasta served from 10.30am. Another 4 or 5 to get things cleaned up at the end would be terrific. We should be all done by 12.30, cleaned and packed up.

If you could let me know your availability, that will help me to fine tune the morning’s events. Please ring or text me on 0401264871

Disco Fun

The Glenview School Disco was a huge success with $1400 raised for the Glenview P&C Association. Thank you to everyone who attended. I am sure all the children had a terrific time. Thank you must go to all our volunteers Belinda Marc, Kylie Read, Simone McGie Miller, Michelle, McCormac, Jane McCarthy, Megan Emmons, Tracey Charles, Jodie Adams, Jodie Buemi and especially Wes Stephen for taking on the most important task of DJ! You all made the event easy and it is much appreciated. Thank you
